RDE Mis-Use:

Over the years, CDR has stated in newsletters, Courier, and the ADA Times that RDE is not a credential and should not be used. This information is also located on the CDR website. For the past several years students completing their supervised practice program must sign a RDE Mis-Use form for their program director regarding this fabricated credential. In addition, each student is provided with a copy of the misuse document to retain in their file. Anyone can file a complaint with CDR on an individual using RDE, RD Eligible, Registered Dietitian Eligible or RD if they are not registered as an RD with CDR. This would include 'rd' in their e-mail address prior to passing the exam for dietitians.

RDE is the acronym and RD Eligible or Registered Dietitian Eligible is the same only spelled out.

Please Note: Do not use RDE, RD Eligible, Registered Dietitian Eligible and 'rd' in your e-mail.

We refer you to the CDR Web Site, www.cdrnet.org, to become familiar with terminology for registration eligible candidates. When the home page opens up, click on the gold "RD and DTR Credentials/Reauthorizations" button on the left hand side of the screen, then click on Registered Dietitian (RD), and then click on Registration Eligibility General Information for the following message. The CDR website direct link is: <http://www.cdrnet.org/certifications/registration-eligibility-general-information-rde>

What does the term registration eligible mean?

The term registration eligible is used by the Commission on Dietetic Registration to identify individuals who have met the didactic and supervised practice requirements to write the registration examination. The Commission will verify upon request that an individual has met registration eligibility requirements and the eligibility date. The term RDE is not a professional designation/credential. The commission has noted with concern an increase in the use of the term RDE to designate registration eligibility. Both employers and the public find the use of the term confusing.

Does the Commission recognize the professional designation RDE?

No. The term is not a professional designation/credential. The Commission has noted with concern an increase in the use of the term RDE to designate registration eligibility. Both employers and the public find the use of the term confusing.

Should you be using the term RDE, please discontinue its use and replace it with "registration eligible. Individuals who use the term RDE are frequently reported to CDR regarding their mis-use, and must be told to discontinue its use via a "cease and desist" order.

Thank you in advance for your assistance regarding this issue.
